

Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary Faculty and Staff Share...

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS
Communities of Faith,
Knowledge and Service

What do you love most about working in a Catholic school?
Why have you chosen to continue working in a Catholic school?

"Teaching at a Catholic School allows you to celebrate Jesus's birth. Sharing your faith with students, parents, and staff builds a true community. The love of the Lord is contagious when you are surrounded by true believers. Being a disciple to me means that you stay, and share the joy of Jesus with your students."

"I love participating in Mass each week with our whole school!"

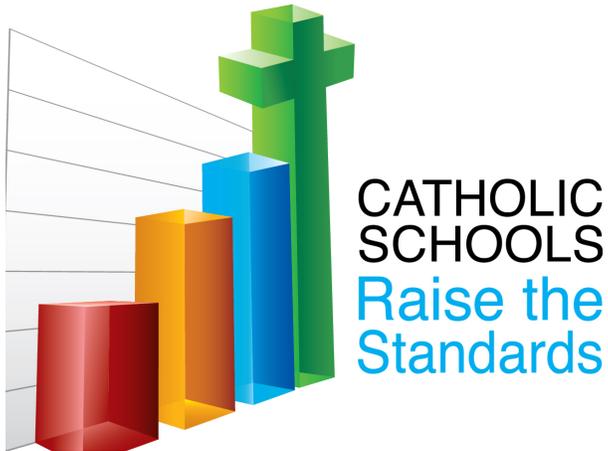

"I love that when I come here, I am part of a family."

"I love teaching in a Catholic School because I love seeing a child's love for God grow and blossom. I love watching the kids be Jesus friends to one another. I love being able to pray with my kids and watch their expressions when they talk about how God is in their lives too. I love listening to the kids when they sing songs about Jesus and how happy they are when they do!"

"I love the community atmosphere. I love the enthusiasm of the students for their faith. The children are taught very young that being Catholic isn't just reciting prayers and receiving the sacraments, but about how you treat people as Christ would. I love that we can stop anytime during the day and pray together. I love celebrating the Mass weekly with my class. I love the great parental support and wonderful, passionate teachers and staff members."

“The reason I teach at a Catholic School, is because it is the most rewarding feeling when my students tell me their favorite part about school is being able to talk about God and share their faith. When a 13 year-old writes in a card to me: “Religion class means a lot to us and it has inspired us to grow in our faith more”; it makes everything I do worthwhile! It’s about making a true difference in the life of a child and being able to create a ‘family’ atmosphere of love and respect in my classroom.”

“ Although I don’t teach academics in a formal classroom, I am fortunate enough to teach my faith and about how Jesus helps us in our daily lives and struggles. So, I can live my life of faith every day, all day.”

“I love working in a Catholic school because I have the opportunity to watch kids grow in their faith everyday. The caring and supportive community is my favorite part of Sacred Hearts.”

“Teaching in a Catholic school keeps me closer to my faith. It is also great to know families with such genuine care and concern.”

“After growing up in Catholic schools, teaching in Catholic schools, and a short stint in the public schools, I can definitely say that the comradery among staff members is second to none in Catholic schools, especially here at Sacred Hearts. The fact that we are all bound together by one mission, one faith, and one big community gets us through the trials and triumphs that each year brings. The students are aware of that positive environment, and personally I wouldn't want my own children missing out on that kind of strong community in their formative years.”

“The support of a real community is what makes teaching at a Catholic School so special. We have the support and appreciation from every parent of every student, as well as parishioners. The parents are completely invested in their child's education and their efforts are to work with us, never against us. Parents in this community go out of their way to make us know that what we are doing is having a positive impact on their child.”

“To me, teaching in a Catholic School is one of the greatest gifts. After attending Catholic School kindergarten through college, I see the value of teaching in a Catholic School and being able to discuss Jesus and pray with my students at any moment of the school day. I love that I feel like I am part of a family when I come to school and that I get to walk with my students on their faith journey and witness them receive two Sacraments.

Watching my students grow academically, morally, and spiritually is one of the most rewarding parts of my job.”

“I love being able to share my faith with kids. The family atmosphere that is apparent when you walk through the halls or attend any school event. Being able to connect with kids at a young age and watch them grow into mature teenagers is priceless. The dedication of teachers and staff in a Catholic school is immeasurable.”

“The thing I love the most about working in a Catholic School is that we are one big family. Our students are afforded various opportunities to make a connection with students and staff members outside of their grade level. As a community we learn, grow, and share our faith together. The compassionate atmosphere where we focus on faith and service, while also providing a strong academic curriculum, is unique to a Catholic School, and it is the reason I choose to work at Sacred Hearts School.”

“There are so many reasons why I work in a Catholic School, I’m not sure if I have time or space to list them... The students are amazing, they are eager to learn and willing to help anyone who needs it. The priests, teachers and other staff are wonderful to work with. I have chosen to work in a Catholic School because I love being able to share my faith with the students and I love working in the school that I attended when I was young.”

